AJS Applauds Supreme Court Decision

Washington, D.C. - Americans for Job Security released the following statement in response to the United States Supreme Court's ruling on Citizens United v. Federal Election Commission.

“For those who believe in free speech and the rights of organizations such as ours to promote our point of view, today was an unequivocal victory,” said Stephen DeMaura, President of Americans for Job Security.

The ruling by the Supreme Court today restores fully the rights of organizations like Americans for Job Security to fulfill our charter cause of discussing and debating the important issues of the day within the marketplace of ideas.

“For more than twelve years Americans for Job Security has sat at the forefront of issue advocacy and this ruling by the Supreme Court reaffirms our rights,” said Stephen DeMaura President of Americans for Job Security.

AJS is the only independent, bi-partisan, pro-business issue advocacy organization in America. Established in 1997, AJS promotes issues that strengthen the American economy.
